

TIPS

for reading Latin

1 Read the sentence or passage completely. In order to see all the words in context, reread as needed.

2 While reading, register the word endings and their relationship to one another. Reread as needed.

3 Now look up unfamiliar words. Reread as needed.

4 Recognize word groups and read them in sequence. Reread as needed.

5 Once a subordinate clause or phrase has begun, it must be completed before the rest of the sentence can proceed. Reread as needed.

6 Translate only when you know how a sentence works and what it means.

* These tips have been adapted from Dexter Hoyos' Latin: How to Read it Fluently.

TIPS

for reading Latin

1 Read the sentence or passage completely. In order to see all the words in context, reread as needed.

2 While reading, register the word endings and their relationship to one another. Reread as needed.

3 Now look up unfamiliar words. Reread as needed.

4 Recognize word groups and read them in sequence. Reread as needed.

5 Once a subordinate clause or phrase has begun, it must be completed before the rest of the sentence can proceed. Reread as needed.

6 Translate only when you know how a sentence works and what it means.

* These tips have been adapted from Dexter Hoyos' Latin: How to Read it Fluently.

TIPS

for reading Latin

1 Read the sentence or passage completely. In order to see all the words in context, reread as needed.

2 While reading, register the word endings and their relationship to one another. Reread as needed.

3 Now look up unfamiliar words. Reread as needed.

4 Recognize word groups and read them in sequence. Reread as needed.

5 Once a subordinate clause or phrase has begun, it must be completed before the rest of the sentence can proceed. Reread as needed.

6 Translate only when you know how a sentence works and what it means.

* These tips have been adapted from Dexter Hoyos' Latin: How to Read it Fluently.

TIPS

for reading Latin

1 Read the sentence or passage completely. In order to see all the words in context, reread as needed.

2 While reading, register the word endings and their relationship to one another. Reread as needed.

3 Now look up unfamiliar words. Reread as needed.

4 Recognize word groups and read them in sequence. Reread as needed.

5 Once a subordinate clause or phrase has begun, it must be completed before the rest of the sentence can proceed. Reread as needed.

6 Translate only when you know how a sentence works and what it means.

* These tips have been adapted from Dexter Hoyos' Latin: How to Read it Fluently.

TIPS

for reading Latin

1 Read the sentence or passage completely. In order to see all the words in context, reread as needed.

2 While reading, register the word endings and their relationship to one another. Reread as needed.

3 Now look up unfamiliar words. Reread as needed.

4 Recognize word groups and read them in sequence. Reread as needed.

5 Once a subordinate clause or phrase has begun, it must be completed before the rest of the sentence can proceed. Reread as needed.

6 Translate only when you know how a sentence works and what it means.

* These tips have been adapted from Dexter Hoyos' Latin: How to Read it Fluently.